Nov 15, 2012 ·James Island (Georgia) James Island is an island in the James River, located in Richmond County, Georgia. The island's area is and its highest elevation is approximately above sea level. History James Island was originally named Mill Island because the land on the island had been a mill site. The first European to visit the area was Gabriel Arthur, who passed the island on his trip down the James River in 1722. References Category:Islands of Richmond County, GeorgiaSkeletal muscle injuries in contact sports such as football, ice hockey, wrestling, and martial arts typically result in acute trauma to the muscle and subcutaneous tissue that can require long recovery times. Accompanying the acute trauma is a reactive inflammatory response that can last for weeks, months, or longer. This inflammation ultimately affects the healing and regeneration of the muscle, bone, and tendons. The inflammatory phase of muscle healing is characterized by a buildup of the proinflammatory cytokine IL-6 in the muscle, as well as an influx of inflammatory cells such as macrophages and T cells. These changes correspond with the clinical manifestations of myofascial pain and fibrosis. } // THIS FILE IS GENERATED BY THE COMMAND AT THE TOP; DO NOT EDIT func Unmount(path string, flags int) (err error) { var _p0 *byte _p0, err = BytePtrFromString(path) if err!= nil { return } _, _, e1 := Sys
